

09/885126

Transient Voltage Suppressor Structure

Abstract

- 5 A kind of transient voltage suppressor structure that prevents the edge of the signal electrode from contacting with the variable impedance material by using an insulation layer to remove the point discharge existing on the edge of the signal electrode and increase the capability of the transient voltage suppressor to sustain higher transient voltage energy.

09885126-062101